

We are Generation Alpha.

We felt the fear of a virus that could make anyone sick.

We didn't see our friends or family for months

Sometimes it felt like a year.

No one was out on the street,

because of the virus, we couldn't meet.

We stayed inside, alone at home,

only speaking through a phone.

We saw wars on the news.

Fights we didn't understand, but still worried about.

There were nights with no lights during blackouts,

it's impossible to imagine without.

People think we only play on screens and we don't notice anything.

They don't know what we have lived through

People say we're the future

because we have culture.

but we're still just kids

trying to fix this.
