

. UNEXPECTED FINAL .

Once upon a time, there was a big village in the mountains. There were so many houses, happy kids, parents going to work. They had a king, a queen and a princess. It looked like a normal village, but it had a dark side.

Every night, they had to sacrifice someone from the village to the evil dragon that hides in a big cave. The dragon was very scary, and if they don't give him a person to eat every night, he will destroy the village and kill everyone.

One day, the king didn't find anyone adult to sacrifice, so he thought of sacrificing a kid. Seeing this, the princess got very sad, and she told her father to let the child go, and that they sacrifice her instead. Crying, the king accepted, and the night arrived. They were walking with the princess to the cave. The princess stood in front of the dragon, with tears in her eyes as the dragon watches her.

The dragon was about to grab her to eat her, but suddenly, a man appeared, on his white horse, with a big sharp sword in his hand. The princess thought he was gonna save her, and she got happy. But the supposed prince saw the terrific dragon and got scared. He dropped his sword, sat on his white horse and left quickly.

The princess was shocked, but she quickly grabbed the sword, and jumped over the dragon, stabbing the sword ~~exactly~~ in the dragon's heart. The dragon started to bleed and falls on the ground, slowly dying.

. The princess grabs the rose that came out of the dragon's heart proudly. All the villagers were surprised, but very happy she didn't die, as they all clapped, the King ran to his daughter and hugged her.
